HARRY THAW ON WITNESS STAND

QUESTION THAW ON PLOT

NEW YORK, July 8.—The crucial test for Harry K. Thaw in his sanity hearing came today when he was called to the witness stand for cross-examination by Deputy Attorney-General Cook.

He answered questions clearly and calmly, and displayed rare keenness in trying clashes with the attorney.

He declared that he had believed a conspiracy of rich men tried to have him kept in Matteawan, but that he did not believe such a conspiracy still existed.

In answer to questions regarding his relations with Susie Merrill, he said that he had once hired a room from her in the course of his investigation of the ruin of young girls.

It was stated today that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw would be arrested at Chautauqua Lake on a bench warrant charging contempt of court and brought back to testify.

The States attorneys in calling Thaw today wished to enter his testimony as that of a State witness, but Justice Hendricks ruled that as Thaw had previously testified for himself—he was his own first witness—he must be recalled for cross-examination.

STEPPED JAUNTILY.

Thaw stepped jauntily to the witness chair with a backward glance at his mother. He gave his birthplace as Pittsburgh and his age as forty-four. Deputy Attorney-General Cook conducted a rather jerky cross-examination, not questioning Thaw in chronological order. He first asked Thaw when he last was disturbed about any reports he had heard about himself.

"In 1912," Thaw answered, "Mr. Jerome at that time made inquiries about Mr. White which I resented."

"When have you been angry or disturbed since?"

"At no time that I recollect."

"Do you think anybody is trying to keep you in Matteawan?"

"Nobody but Mr. Jerome. I think no rich man is now aiding Jerome to keep me in Matteawan."

"Did you ever think that certain rich men were trying to keep you in Matteawan?"

"Yes."

"When do you think they ceased?"

"In 1913."

CALM AND SELF POSSESSED.

Thaw at first appeared slightly nervous, but this quickly wore off and when he got into the swing of his testimony he was calm and self-possessed and spoke slowly and distinctly.

Report Adriatic Has Taken North of Ireland Route

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 8.—The White Star liner Adriatic is reported to have taken the route around the north of Ireland, and shipping agents expect her to dock at Greenock instead of Liverpool.

Another report has it that the Adriatic is convoyed by a British cruiser.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The White Star line had received no information as to the liner Adriatic up to noon. If she had arrived on schedule time at Liverpool, the line would have been notified by 9 a. m. under ordinary conditions.

Hold Man Captured in Brookline Break

The unarmed man who was arrested in the basement of Liggett's drug store, at Coolidge Corner, after holding off the police temporarily by flourishing a piece of metal that looked like a revolver, was held in $1,500 bonds in Brookline Court today for a continued hearing to-morrow on a charge of breaking and entering in the night time.

The man told the police he is George C. Brown of No. 171 Harrison avenue, Cleveland. The police think he is a Boston man and secured a continuance to investigate. Fingerprints and a photograph of the prisoner were taken, to be sent to police headquarters for comparison.

H., July 8.—Daniel Linehan, nineteen, Hjalmer Thorgorsen, forty-one, and Walter Cody, thirty-seven, are dying at the Sacred Heart Hospital here from what the doctors say may be poisoning. According to the police, the three drank from a bottle of liquor in the hands of a friend whom they met on the street. The authorities detained Leo Savageau early today.

DEATH IN STORM

CHICAGO, July 8.—Meagre reports filtering into Chicago over badly damaged lines of communication today indicated that the death list in the tornado and storm that struck five Middle Western States last night may reach 100. Twice that number are unaccounted for in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Thousands of houses were reported to have been levelled and property damage of enormous proportions was inflicted on the storm-swept sections.

The greatest damage was done in Cincinnati and Ohio River towns in that vicinity.

The latest authentic report from Cincinnati said that thirty-three persons were known to be dead there. Meagre advices from Milford and Terrace Park, Ohio, and Covington, Newport, Belleview, Ludlow and Dayton, Ky., indicated that several persons were killed in those cities.

An inestimable amount of property was destroyed.

The storm smashed down upon St. Louis and St. Charles county in Missouri. An unconfirmed report stated that seven persons were killed in St. Charles county.

A report that could not be confirmed stated that two persons

BRIDE AT 70, A SUICIDE ON 93D BIRTHDAY

Harriet Stone, whose marriage at the age of seventy to Oscar Swain, a Danvers motor man, created a sensation on the North Shore two decades ago, committed suicide today, which was her ninety-third birthday, at the Sutton Home for Aged Women at Beverly, of which she had been an inmate four years.

Mrs. Horner, the matron, went to call Miss Stone—she had resumed her maiden name and insisted on being called "Miss" after her divorce from Swain—and found all the windows closed, the gas turned on and Miss Stone dead on her bed.

The other inmates had prepared in their humble way to take special notice of her ripe age. Medical Examiner Foster was inclined to look upon the death as accidental, but Miss Stone had told the Beverly correspondent for the AMERICAN, who went to get a birthday story from her yesterday, that she wanted to die.

"I'm ready," said she languidly. "I'm the last of my family and they are calling me to come."

Medical Examiner Foster and Miss Stone had been dead not more than an hour when Mrs. Horner found her at 7 a. m.

Miss Stone was born at Marblehead and later lived on Andover street, Beverly. She used to ride frequently on Oscar Swain's car. She fell in love with him although he was young enough to be her son. They were married in 1852. The union was unhappy and the wife secured a divorce. There was trouble about a little property she held. She had lived alone for year when friends induced her to seek the shelter of the home.

House Servant Leaves Estate of $10,000 Value

The will of Emma Bordman of Randolph, a domestic, was filed in the Dedham court today. The will disposes of a small fortune, which is said to represent the woman's savings during her work as a servant.

The value of her personal property is given as $10,500. She leaves it share of American Telephone stock to the First Congregational Church of Randolph, the income to be used as follows: $100 annually to beat the parsonage, $20 for the Sunday school Christmas tree, and the balance to be used in church repairs.

She leaves $500 each to the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, Lord's Day League of New England, Massachusetts Civic Alliance, Norfolk and Pilgrim branch of the Women's Board of Missions.

To her half-brothers, Charles and William Forester, and a half-sister, Mary Jane Forester, she leaves $1 each. The rest of the estate is left to a sister, Lucy Bordman of Firmaugh, Ireland.

Miss Bordman was employed in the home of Mrs. William Porter on Union street, Randolph. Last Spring she tripped on a rug and died of her injuries at the Brockton Hospital.

Archbishop Quigley Is Reported Weaker

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 8.—The condition of Archbishop Quigley of Chicago remains unchanged. Dr. T. J Conley of Chicago announced at 9:30 o'clock this morning that the patient had passed a restless night and was somewhat weaker. Strychnine is still being employed to keep the archbishop alive.

BIG NEW HAVEN SUIT DROPPED BY COURT

The full bench of the Supreme Court today dismissed the $192,000,000 restitution suit brought against the New Haven Railroad and certain of its former directors.

The full bench in its finding states that the "allegations in the bill do not show reasonable application to the directors to institute proceedings to recover the losses referred to, or facts showing that such application would have been useless."

The suit was filed on July 17 last year by Sherman L. Whipple, as counsel for certain New Haven stockholders. Some of the defendant directors, as named in the bill, were William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Robert W. Taft, Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New Haven; Alexander Cochrane and J. Pierpont Morgan.

Boston Wife Sues on Alienation Charge

Mrs. Rose M. Klibbe of Boston today brought suit in the East Cambridge Court against Mabel A. Berry of Waltham for 10,000 for the alleged alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's husband, Milo Klibbe. The suit names two Waltham banks as trustees.

SUSPICION OF HOLT INFERNAL MACHINE ON AMMUNITION SHIP

By ROBERT C. CRANSTON,

Special Correspondent of the International News Service

NEW YORK, July 8.—The British liner Minnehaha, the largest ship engaged in carrying munitions of war from America to the allies was set afire by an explosion that occurred late yesterday afternoon in hold No. 3, while the vessel was about 370 miles southeast of Halifax, N. S.

bTe liner is now speeding to Halifax.

The cause of the re was revealed for the first time by a dispatch received at the Atlantic Transport Company's office shortly after noon today. The information came in a wireless message from Captain Frank Claret of the Minnehaha, who stated that the flames were under control.

His message strengthened the belief that had been growing in shipping circles that a bomb, placed by Frank Holt the dynamiter and assailant of J. P. Morgan, was responsible for the fire.

The dispatch announcing that the fire was caused by an explosion follows:

Fire caused by an explosion. Now controlled by suffocation and steam. Much smoke in hold. Deem it expedient to make Halifax. Due Chebucto Head at 9 o'clock Friday.

This dispatch from Captain Claret was sent last night. In an earlier one sent at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon he gave the information that fire had broken out in hold No. 2 and that the ship was making for Halifax.

The liner carried 15,000 tons of ammunition consigned to the British government, and purchased here through the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., whose head Holt tried to assassinate last Saturday.

The Minnehaha, a liner of 13,714 tons, is owned by the Atlantic Transport Company, Ltd. Her commander is Captain F. S. H. Claret.

CARRIED 150 MEN.

The Minnehaha carried a crew of 150 men, but had no passengers on board when she left here on Sunday. In view of the revelations in connection with the operation of Frank Holt, it was regarded as a possibility here that the dynamiter had placed some of his explosive aboard the Minnehaha instead of the ship mentioned in the letter he sent to his wife.

In addition to the ammunition the Minnehaha also carried a general cargo. The wireless dispatch from

The Time to Buy Real Estate Is Now

The man with a few hundred dollars who is alive to the possibilities of the day will invest his money in Real Estate. Fortunes have been made through wise investments in land which was in the path of a boom. Such Real Estate is sure to increase in value as the years roll by.

There are acres of such property in and around Easton. The suburbs of Boston are as beautiful as any in New England. Such land makes ideal home sites. As the city increases in size, the inhabitants will move farther out—away from the city.

When that time comes, the suburban property which is advertised in the "Real Estate" columns of the Boston AMERICAN today will be worth many times the price which you pay for it now. A dollar spent in Real Estate today will bring you two dollars a few years hence.

When contemplating the purchase of Real Estate, always bear in mind that "no puzzle, misleading or fraudulent Real Estate advertising is ever published in the Boston AMERICAN."

sons were killed in Lawrenceville, Ill., and that seven were killed by falling timbers when the storm struck Russellville.

At Vincennes, Ind., and Lawrenceburg, Ind., one person was reported killed in each city.

THIRTY KILLED BY THE HURRICANE IN CINCINNATI ALONE

CINCINNATI, July 8.—Thirty-three people were killed and at least a score injured in a severe wind and rain storm which struck Cincinnati and and surrounding country last night, completely demoralized traffic for hours and cut the city off from communication with the outside world.

The towns of Milford, Ohio, and Ludlow, and Dayton, Ky., were practically wiped out.

The high wind capsized two tow boats in the Ohio River, blew other craft from their moorings, swept houses from their foundations and buried the inmates in the wreckage.

Captain W. P. Curray is thought to be the only survivor of the towboat Conway, which carried a crew of eighteen men. The boat, turned over in midstream. The swift current defeated efforts of the sailors to swim ashore. Captain Curray tied himself to a door and was washed ashore.

The towboat Fulton capsized near the Kentucky shore, just off Newport. The crew struck out for shore, but Captain Brad Williams, who refused to leave his charge, was drowned when the raging current picked up the boat and crushed it against the banks.

200 HOUSES BLOWN DOWN.

More than 200 houses were blown down in the west end of the city, church steeples were razed and railroad communication was cut off for hours until wreckage was removed from the tracks.

Joseph T. Allen, superintendent of the children's department of the Ohio Humane Society, was killed when part of the Masonic Temple collapsed. Many others, who, with Allen, were attending a lodge meeting, were severely injured.

The wind lifted the cottage of Mrs. Rose Tannenbaum, on the west side, from its foundation and carried it several hundred feet. The woman's body was found in the wreckage today. Others asleep in the house escaped.

Mrs. Mary Cobes, living in another section, was instantly killed by sections of another house which was blown through her windows.

Four cars of race horses bound from Latonia, Ky., for Toledo were wrecked twenty-five miles north of Cincinnati. The cars made up a section of a Pennsylvania freight train which was blown from the track. Many of the horses were valued at thousands of dollars. Train hands shot them to put them out of misery.

HOTEL ROOF LIFTED.

Guests at the Burnett House were panic stricken when the wind lifted off part of the roof, the heavy rain driving the lodgers from rooms on the upper floor.

No attempt was made today to run city street cars on schedule time and nearly all of Cincinnati walked to work. Only a few telephones were serviceable and only telegraph wires out of Cincinnati were working.

Night operators in the Western Union Telegraph Company were driven from their keys when twelve windows were crushed in.

During the height of the storm the wind blew seventy miles an hour, according to the local weather bureau.

The storm continued about thirty minutes during which rain came down in blinding sheets. The storm had not entirely ceased when the fire department, police patrols and ambulances were called out by alarms from all parts of the city. They found that the greatest havoc was wrought at Sixth and Mound streets, where five buildings in one block had been demolished.

As a result of a storm a Pennsylvania train was wrecked at Plainville, O., and several persons injured.

TENEMENT DESTROYED.

Forty persons were in a tenement house which was demolished at Sixth and Mound streets. How many were caught in the wreckage is not known.

Four families were in another house in Sixth street when it was blown down. How many were injured or killed is not known.

The storm struck at 3 o'clock. Most damage was done in the downtown section here, in the hill tops surrounding the city and in the river towns.

A Pennsylvania passenger train en route from Cincinnati to Cleveland was reported to have been blown off the track somewhere between this city and Columbus. Attempts to communicate with the river towns in the vicinity of the city were fruitless, as the tornado blew down the telegraph and telephone poles as it swept along the valley.

Some sections of the city were in darkness on account of the electric light wires being blown down.

The Bell Telephone exchange was in the path of the terrific wind and every pane of glass was shattered.

The loss occasioned by the storm will run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

SEVEN KILLED BY STORM IN ST. CHARLES COUNTY, MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—Seven persons lost their lives in the tornado that swept St. Charles county, Mo., according to unconfirmed reports that reached here today. More than $250,000 damage was done in St. Charles, St. Peters and Cootesville, according to the same reports.

Telephone and telegraph communication with these points had not been restored at an early hour today.

Mrs. Thomas Slattery and her two children were reported killed when their home, 18 miles west of St. Charles, was wrecked by the storm. An unidentified man was killed in Kentsville and another at Gilmore.

The St. Charles Borromeo Church which was erected in 1849 at a cost of $70,000 was totally wrecked. St. Joseph's Hospital was seriously damaged.

The storm struck St. Charles late yesterday afternoon. A small funnel shaped cloud with twisting tail appeared as the storm approached, moving with terrible speed upon the city.

Four coaches of a Wabash passenger train from St. Louis to Kansas City, which passed Gilmore, Mo., just before the storm reached there, four coaches were blown from the track. Mail Clerks U. G. Whitehead, William T. Clary, Earl D. McKinley and Rolla W. Betts were slightly injured in the wreck.

Leaving Missouri the storm took a northeasterly course into Madison County, Ill., where he heavy damage was reported to have been inflicted.

Pulmotor Saves Life of Boy at Winthrop

Balkan Visit by British Diplomat

ROME, July 8.—John Duncan Gregory, secretary of the British Legation to the Vatican, has left for the Balkan States on a diplomatic mission for his country. He will visit Bucharest, Sofia, Belgrade and Athens.

STORM HAVOC IN FIVE STATES

Latest information shows three results of the tornado that swept five States:

Ohio—Cincinnati swept by the storm. Thirty-three known dead. Property loss in Cincinnati estimated at nearly $1,000,000. Train wrecked at Plainville, O.

Kentucky—Covington, Ludlow, Dayton, Bellevue and Newport suffered heavy property losses. Reported nearly a score of lives lost in these cities.

Illinois—Russellville struck by tornado. Reported seven dead. At Lawrenceville two reported killed. Enormous property damage at both these cities.

Indiana—One killed at Vincennes. One killed at Lawrenceburg. Heavy property losses in both places.

Missouri—Seven reported dead in St. Charles. Town of St. Peters said to be partially wiped out.

POISON PIE CLAIMS 11 MORE VICTIMS

WESTERLY, R. I., July 8.—Eating cocoanut custard pie from a local restaurant has caused, it is believed, eleven additional cases of ptomaine poisoning among residents of southern Rhode Island and eastern Connecticut. At the present time but one fatality has resulted, this being the case of Timothy Sullivan of White Rock.

It is estimated that thirty-nine persons are seriously ill, and while it is thought that most of those afflicted will recover there are several cases that are yet in the critical stage.

That a strict examination will be made into the cause of the poisoning was evidenced when Franklin R. Strickland, State chemist, and Frank A. Jackson, both members of the State Pure Food and Drug Commission, visited the restaurant from which the pies were obtained, and secured samples of the cocoanut claimed to be used in their making.

Liquid and powdered insect killer, which was found in the restaurant, was also taken away as it was considered possible that the poison in some way may have accidentally found its way into the pies.

MANSFIELD'S CASE IS ONE OF MANY.

That the Essex Grand Jury has made a sweeping inquiry of alleged election frauds in the town of Middleton, was intimated by District Attorney Michael A. Sullivan of Essex County in the Salem District Court. The District Attorney's statement was made when Harry K. Mansfield, former owner of Ferncroft Inn and defendant in the famous "Doodles" suit, appeared in the court on a charge of conspiring to unlawfully enter his name on the voting lists of the town of Middleton.

Opposing a request for an immediate hearing, the District Attorney said to the court:

"Your Honor undoubtedly knows that it is often necessary to have defendants held by the Essex court until after the Grand Jury has completed its investigation and made its report.

"I want to say that this complaint brought in this court is but a small portion of what the Grand Jury has investigated and will report on very soon."

It is expected the Grand Jury will report this week. In court with Mansfield were Charles Conrad, a former waiter at Ferncroft, and Henry Allen, former president of the Ferncroft Inn Corporation. All three have pleaded not guilty to the charge of conspiracy and have been held for a hearing next Wednesday.

FRITZI SCHEFF, well known actress, who has been discharged from bankruptcy.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Judge Learned Hand, in the United States District Court, has granted a discharge from bankruptcy to Fritzi Scheff. Previous applications of Miss Scheff for a discharge were opposed by Joseph, Inc., milliners, of No. 622 Fifth avenue, a creditor concern that accused her of having concealed $40,000 worth of her assets.

Upon the failure of this creditor to offer proof of the charges at a hearing before Referee in Bankruptcy John J. Townsend, the objections to the discharge were dismissed, and the referee filed a report in favor of the actress. Miss Scheff went into bankruptcy more than a year ago.

FIND FIRST TEST FOR DENTISTS ILLEGAL

Prospective dentists, who took the June examinations and have been expecting every day to be notified officially of their fate at the hands of the examiners, found an official notice from the State Board of Registration in their mail, today, informing them that they must take additional tests, in mechanical and laboratory dentistry, because the first examinations are illegal.

Over two hundred students are affected. The mixup is due to the fact that the new dental registration law, in effect on passage, was a statute before the June examinations had actually got under way. The new law changed the requirements to be examined, including actual laboratory work—prosthetic dentistry.

The second examination will entail a heavy expense for a number of the graduates. They are scattered all over the country. Some are in Texas, some in Oregon, some in the northwestern provinces.

There is no way to avoid the situation. The State Board officials are not settled yet as to when the test will be held or where, because a laboratory as well as an operating room will be required, and no appropriation was made for the hiring of this equipment but they are anxious to do all in their power to straighten matters.

On May 24, according to the usual custom, the State Board began its examination of the graduates of the dental schools. These continued up to May 28. Previously the board also advertised its general public examination to begin on June 1. The dental bill was in the Legislature, but the general opinion was that it would be defeated in the end. It is not certain that this important change in section seven relating to the character of the requirements of the examination was noticed.

TURKS BEATEN BACK WHEN THEY ATTACK BY LAND, SEA AND AIR

LONDON, July 8.—Turkish forces to a general attack on our front, defending the Dardanelles on Sunday launched a land, air and sea attack against the Allied troops, and pushed it home with more determination than in any preceding assaults since early in May, according to reports made public today.

From Paris and from the War Office here, as well as from unofficial sources, details have come.

Five thousand shells were fired by the Turkish land batteries. A Turkish warship, possibly the former German cruiser Goeben, dropped twenty 11.2 inch shells into the British trenches. And aviators throughout the battle threw bombs on the Allies' lines.

The detailed statement from the British War Office says:

"General Sir Ian Hamilton reports that at 4 a. m. July 6 the enemy started a heavy bombardment of the trenches. All the guns previously used against us and some new ones were in action. During the bombardment about 26 11.2-inch shells were dropped from a Turkish battleship in the straits. At least 5,000 rounds of artillery ammunition were expended by them.

"This shelling of our lines on the Peninsula proved the preliminary to a general attack on our front, defending the Dardanelles on Sunday launched a land, air and sea attack against the Allied troops, and pushed it home with more determination than in any preceding assaults since early in May, according to reports made public today.

"The principal effort was made at the junction of the Royal naval division section with that of the French. Here, the Turks drove back our advanced troops and assaulted a portion of the line held by the Royal naval division. Some fifty Turks gained a footing in our naval trench but were, nevertheless, some of the Royal naval division held on to our supports and the men who had retired counter-attacked immediately and buried the Turks out of the trench again.

"Another attack on the right of the 29th division section was practically wiped out by rifle and machine gun fire.

"Not only was the result a complete failure, but while our losses were negligible and no impression was made on our line, the enemy added a large number to his recent very large casualties."

The French war department gave out the following statement on the battle:

"During this action batteries of the enemy in the Asiatic coast fired without interruption. A Turkish cruiser steaming between Maidos and Chanak also took part in the engagement. On several different occasion aviators of the enemy bombarded our lines."

La corazzata Amalfi silurata affonda. L'equipaggio salvato.

15,000 Nemici Prigionieri

L'offensiva italiana sull'altipano Carso, che apre la via a Trieste, si è evi-luppata in una grande battaglia. Le operazioni sono state riprese su larga scala e i risultati sono emergenti. Negli ultimi tre giorni di lotta gli Italiani han preso 15,000 prigionieri.

Gli Austriaci Resistono Di Sperataments.

Le truppe Italiane denlicono una dopo l'altra le formidabili difese Austriache, annientando i reticolati, prendendo all' assalto le trincee, superando vette e smatellando, con le loro artiglierie, le batterie avversarie.

Nella frontiera del Calvio e presso il passo Predic, i successi Italiani sono pure rilevanti. Essi fanno sforzi per raggiungere Tarvis che rappresenta la chiave d'Ingresso in Austria.

Roma, 8 luglio. — La corazzata Amalfi e' stata silurata nel mare Adriatico da un sottomarino Austriaco. Il Ministro della Marina Italiana ne ha dato l'annuncio ufficiale, affermando che quasi tutti i marinai furono salvati.

L'Amalfi aveva 884 uomini.

Ecco la notizia ufficiale data dal Comando:

"Mentre la squadra Italiana era in ricognizione nel mare Adriatico, un sottomarino Austriaco ha silurato la corazzata Amalfi, che immediatamente affondo."

Nella frontiera del Calvio e presso il passo Predic, i successi Italiani sono pure rilevanti. Essi fanno sforzi per raggiungere Tarvis che rappresenta la chiave d'Ingresso in Austria.

La corrazzata fu varata nel maggio del 1905, a Sestri, e fu completata tre anni lqpo. Aveva due motori a triplice espansione.

L'Amalfi era fornita di una corazza di 8 inches nel mezzo, a di tre sotto il livello d'immersione e sulle parti superiori. La torretta principale era protetta da corazze di 8 inches e quelle secondarie da corazze di 7. inches. Per le spesaore delle corazze era ritenuta come una corazzata di primo ordine. Aveva 24 cannoni da 10 inches; 8 da 7.5; e 28 più piccoli. Era fornita di tre tubi per il lancio delle torpedini.

Secondo il rapporto ufficiale che da nuove della distruzione dell'Amalfi, la nave non affondo' subito; perciò' si crede che i marinai, o una maggior parte di essi, ebbero tempo di calare i battelli di salvataggio e indi furon raccolti dalle altre navi italiane.

Twenty-three seriously injured were taken to the General Hospital at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Eight unidentified dead, four men, two women and two children, are here.

Dorothy Keates, a young girl, who died on the way to the hospital, was the shortest-ish victim.

The car that jumped the track was crowded with excursionists from two Toronto churches. Practically every one in the car was killed or injured.

The Factory-Stamped Price of Every 1915 WOMEN'S Regal Oxford and Pump

BEGINNING to-morrow, Women's Regal Oxfords and Pumps will be sold at $1.00 off the *established, factory-stamped price in all the principal cities of the United States.

Any article with an advertised, fixed price, a national distribution and a world-wide reputation represents the standard of value at the price quoted.

The price of a Regal Shoe is fixed at the factory and based on the cost of manufacture, but the dealer in a nameless, fameless, priceless shoe marks a price on the bottom of the shoe, without regard to cost, simply on the basis of what he can get out of you.

A reduction of $2.00 or $3.00 on a $6.00, $7.00 or $8.00 shoe marked in the store doesn't represent as much reduction as $1.00 off the established price of a standard Regal Shoe stamped in our factory.

The immense number of styles introduced this Spring in Fancy-Top Oxfords compelled us to depart from our usual policy of manufacturing large quantities of the accepted style standards and made it necessary to order smaller quantities of a large variety of styles. For instance, last Spring we had 127 styles; this year in all stores we have 423.

So—right now in the full height of the season, we find ourselves with sizes broken and short lines in a big range of styles on which we offer a price inducement to maintain our usual policy of clearing out all 1915 styles in nineteen hundred and fifteen.

All these are the very newest designs and patterns and include Summer Specialties received from the factory yesterday. They are the smartest and richest-looking shoes on account of their color and character that we have ever shown in our quarter-century of shoemaking.

Simply step into a Regal Store today and pay one dollar less than the price plainly stamped on the sole at the factory. No fuss, no figuring, no need of asking questions.

We have hundreds of pairs for you to choose from, in every conceivable color-combination to meet every taste and to match every color hose or gown.

Just make sure of your size and style, turn over the shoe, look at the factory-stamped price, deduct $1. and walk out with a dollar in your pocket.

Disappearing Gun on New U. S. Submarine M-1

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The new American submarine M-1, under construction by the Electric Boat Company, will be the first American under-sea boat to carry cannon.

A three-inch disappearing gun has been perfected by the navy ordnance bureau. Secretary Daniels has announced, and the M-1 and all future submarine craft will be equipped with such weapons for surface fighting.

Mr. Daniels said every test has resulted satisfactorily and that within ten days the gun and its carriage would be sent to be mounted on the new M-1.

The carriage of the weapon operates like those of disappearing guns in shore batteries. The rifle is raised through ports in the deck by electrical machinery and after firing is carried quickly back into its place by its own recoil, the same force closing the water-tight hatch as it disappears.

Submarines Cut Off Meat for England

LONDON, July 8.—The Earl of Selbourne, president of the Board of Agriculture, in moving in the House of Lords the second reading of the bill which empowers the government to prohibit the slaughter of young stock expressed the opinion that the Germans were putting their whole ship-building strength into the construction of submarines. He said even if there were no diminution of the overseas supply of meat there probably would be less for the use of the civil population.

New Naval Battle Off Gothland Heard

By International News Service.

STOCKHOLM, July 8.—Heavy cannonading was heard Wednesday off the Island of Gothland in the Baltic, and another naval battle between German and Russian warships is believed to have taken place.

6,000,000 Pounds of Meat on Ship Long Overdue

The British steamer Bollington Grange, with over 6,000,000 pounds of chilled beef aboard for the allied armies, which left Boston, June 20, has not been heard from. Grave fears are entertained that she may have fallen victim to a German submarine.

The vessel sailed for Dunkirk. She should have arrived there last Sunday. Wireless messages from her were expected at least a week before that.

No word has come.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY.

People who are over-burdened with superfluous fat, know only too well the discomforts and ridicule that overstout people have to bear.

If you are one of those around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily overtaxing your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation, diet or strenuous exercise, spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is retained by the system. Any excessive fatty tissue by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in bulkiness. Become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial; there is nothing better.

Animals, Birds and Fishes

Interesting collections of birds and wild animals can be found at Franklin Park, Scarborough Park, Lexington Park and Middlesex Fells. RUSSIANS DRIVE TEUTONS BACK 12 MILES

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, July 8.—Maintaining their offensive against the Austrian troops that invaded Poland from the south, the Russian forces have driven the enemy back twelve miles from the Wilkolas Heights, according to reports received from the front today.

The fierce onslaughts of the Czar's troops are keeping the soldiers of Archduke Joseph Ferdinand on the defensive.

The latest advices from the front, Petrograd military experts assert, indicate that the blow which the Austro-German forces had planned against Ivanorod and Warsaw will terminate in complete failure, and that a repetition of the disaster with which the Austrians met last Fall is imminent.

The German offensive against Warsaw from the west is declared at the War Office to have met with failure again. The Germans made several assaults in the region of Borzymow on Tuesday, and were able to gain only two unimportant hills which the Russians had abandoned.

In the attempted advance that followed their occupation of these hills the Germans suffered enormous losses. They were met by a galling fire from the Russian artillery and machine guns, and two companies were practically destroyed by fire from a concealed trench.

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half pint of water add:
Bay Rum ..... 1 oz.
Barbo Compound ..... a small box
Glycerine ..... ¼ oz.

These are all made ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half-pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scaly diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

ITALIAN CRUISER TORPEDOED

DESTROY BRITISH STORES AT ARRAS

By FREDERICK WERNER, Special correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, July 8.—The bombardment of Arras, France, resulted in the destruction of great British stores there, and also prevented the regrouping of French forces, it was officially announced today.

The shells from the German guns also set fire to the Arras Cathedral, which was destroyed. Deep regret over the destruction of the beautiful edifice was officially expressed here today.

The British stores destroyed were the main supplies of the English army on the front.

Loss of ground by the Germans in the Arras region, however, is admitted in today's report from the General Staff. It states that French troops penetrated the German trenches near Souchez on a front of 800 yards.

In the forest of Apremont, however, two attacks by the French were complete failures, the Germans taking three officers and 400 men.

In the eastern theatre German troops yesterday captured Russian trenches at Prassnysz, north of Warsaw.

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, July 8.—The Italian armored cruiser Amalfi has been torpedoed and sunk by an Austrian submarine in the Adriatic. Official announcement of the destruction of the warship was made today by the ministry of marine. Almost all the crew were saved. The Amalfi carried 684 men.

The official announcement of the loss of the Amalfi follows:

"While an Italian squadron was reconnoitring in the northern section of the Adriatic Sea an Austrian submarine torpedoed the cruiser Amalfi, which afterward sank.

"Before losing the ship the sailors cried 'Long live Italy.'

"The crew was almost wholly saved.

This is the hardest blow suffered by the Italian navy in the war with Austria. The Amalfi was a vessel of 9,555 tons, was 426.5 feet long and was capable of making 22.5 knots an hour.

The cruiser was laid down in May, 1905, at Sestri, and was completed three years later. She was equipped with two sets of triple expansion engines.

The Amalfi had an 8-inch armor belt amidships and a 3-inch belt fore and aft. The main turrets were protected by an 8-inch belt and the secondary turrets by a 7-inch belt. Because of the strength of her armor and armament she was regarded by some authorities as a battleship. She carried four ten-inch guns, eight 7.5-inch, sixteen fourteen pounders and two 12-pounders. The ship was equipped with three torpedo tubes.

The warship was sixty-nine feet wide and her maximum draught was twenty-four feet.

The official report announcing the Amalfi's destruction indicates that she did not sink at once. It is believed that her sailors, or most of them, were able to take to her boats and were picked up by the other vessels in the Italian squadron.

German Submarines Reach Dardanelles

BERLIN, July 8.—Seven great German submarines have arrived at the Dardanelles, an Athens dispatch says. The raiders may force the warships to cease their operations along the Gallipoli peninsula and leave the allied land forces without support from the battle fleet's heavy guns.

CHAMPION JESS WILLARD TELLS YOUNG MEN TO LIVE CLEAN LIVES TO SUCCEED

By JESS WILLARD.

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt. All Rights Reserved.)

"No whisky drinker should be allowed in the prize ring. A weak heart may mean death."

THE thing that came close to wrecking my whole life was the fatal match with John Young on August 22, 1913. I knocked him out in the eleventh round and he died without ever coming to.

It wasn't a hard fight and it wasn't a hard blow. I fought Young twice before. In 1912 I put him away in six rounds before Fort Wayne club, and later I knocked him out in five rounds in Chicago.

The nickname "Bull" was given to Young because of his size and strength. He was what the sporting writers love to call an "iron man." I never saw a man with such a chest and neck. With a good deal obesity than me, his upper body was far bigger than mine.

Had John ever taken the trouble to train he might have been a champion, for he was as game as a pebble and could hit like a bullet. But he thought he was so strong that he didn't have to bother about taking care of himself.

The minute we entered the ring that awful day at Berson, just outside Los Angeles, I saw that John was in poor shape. His stomach sagged over his belt, and his eyes were bloodshot. When he rushed, I stabbed him with a left and sent him back on his heels.

"What's the matter, Bull?" I said, when we came to a clinch. "Didn't train at all, did you?"

"Don't need it," he grunted. "All I want is one wallop, Jess, old boy."

"All right," I said. "Nobody can tell you anything. I see that." I liked him mighty well, for he was a game, clean fighter. I reckon lots of people think that us boxers hate each other, but I want to tell you that there are more warm friendships in the ring than in business.

So I shilled along for five or six rounds, really feeling sorry for poor old Bull, with his fat stomach and bloodshot eyes. But the crowd began to yell, "Fake," and the referee told me that I had to go ahead and fight.

I waited for an opening, and in the eleventh round, as Bull tore in, I put my left to the point of his jaw. I didn't swing it, but just hooked it, for I knew he was in no shape to stand a hard punch. Bull dropped to the floor and after the referee had counted ten I carried him over to the corner.

When he didn't come to everybody said, "Fractured skull." I was nearly crazy. They arrested me, but I gave bail and hiked out to the hospital where they had taken Bull. As I sat there in that quiet building, waiting for the doctors to report, I did some of the hardest praying a man ever did.

What if it was my blow that had killed him? What if I had hit harder than I thought? I made up my mind then and there to quit the ring if the doctor said it was my punch that had killed him.

But they didn't. They found that it was John's heart that had broken, not his skull. Years of careless living had weakened his blood pump until almost anything would have stopped it. It was his own violent exertion, not my punch, that killed him.

The case against me never came to trial. When the District Attorney received the report of the doctors, he dismissed the murder charge against me. I never expect to know a happier moment than when they brought that news to me.

That's why I always insist on having medical examinations before I engage in a fight. I want to know that the man in front of me has a strong heart and one that won't stop when it gets a punch. When you get right down to it, nobody but that drinks can have a strong heart.

Look over the list of men "Killed in the Ring" and you'll find that every man Jack of them was either a drinker or some weak untrained boy, who should never have been allowed to put on gloves.

Con Riordan was killed by Bob Fitzsimmons, so the paper said. Riordan was Bob's sparring partner, and the accident took place in an exhibition battle. Ask Fitz, and he will tell you that whiskey killed him. Con Riordan was another of those men who thought they were so strong that nothing could hurt them. Time after time Fitzsimmons cautioned him about his drinking and he always laughed and said that "a few drinks never hurt anybody."

One night at Syracuse he came into the ring with his face purple and swollen. Fitz gave him a calling down and he laughed and tried to land a heavy swing on Bob. The exertion was too much for his whiskey soaked heart. He dropped flat and died in a little while.

It sometimes happens that a man does get a fracture of the skull because the floor of the ring isn't padded properly. Before every fight I make a personal visit to the hall and see myself if things are fixed right.

Some deaths are also due to the fact that they let young boys enter the ring without giving them a thorough medical examination. Every time a physical exercise needs a strong heart to back it up. Don't go into any game until you've had a doctor look you over to see whether the blood pump is O. K.

When you run or swim or box or play ball, the heart is called upon for extra work. Make sure that you can stand the strain. Whiskey and tobacco weaken the heart. So does over eating or gulping down food without chewing.

Look how many men drop dead at ball games. Look into every case and you will find that it was some red-faced, thick-necked man who drank too much, smoked too much and ate too much. When they got excited the tired-out heart just stopped working.

There is something else I want to talk about. That's the thing they call vice. I know exactly what I want to say, but it's hard to pick words. Funny, but the biggest and most important things in life are generally the things that we are ashamed to talk about.

I believe there isn't any reason why a boy shouldn't be as clean-living as a girl. We talk a lot about girls being "ruined," and "going wrong," but we don't feel that way where a boy is concerned.

Why not? I know of hundreds of boys who have been "ruined" by vice. I've seen strong men made wrecks by disease. Vice ruins the body and it rots the mind. Many is the fighter I know who went to pieces because he thought he was smart to "see the town."

They call vice a "necessary evil." It's a lie. If it's necessary it isn't an evil, and if it's an evil it isn't necessary. Ask any doctor in the world and he'll tell you that the boy who keeps himself clean and wholesome until he marries is the boy who will live strongest and longest.

I've seen fathers who thought it a wise thing to take their sons on dissipating jaunts. "Making a man of him," they said. And I've seen these same fathers cursing the day when they were born when they found that the son was in a trouble that had spoiled his whole life and killed his hope of healthy children.

Vice isn't a necessity for any man. It's nothing more than a filthy thought that fools let grow into a habit. Any boy who wants to be an athlete might just as well make up his mind at the start that he must choose between health and vice.

While I'm on this subject I'm going the limit. It may seem funny for a prize fighter to say that he's an equal suffragist, but that's what I am. I believe in woman voting, because there are lots of things that a woman knows more about than a man.

You can take this question of vice. It was the equal suffrage states that first took the old lies and shook them to pieces. It's in the equal suffrage states that you find laws against "redlight districts," and towns where you can bring up your children in a clean air.

Seattle was a sink hole before women voted. Boys and young girls, still in school, were being dragged down, and the mayor was even letting disorderly houses be built in the public streets. The women kicked him out, cleaned up the city and today it's a better place than ever before.

When the women got the vote in California they wiped out the Barbary Coast in San Francisco and put a law on the books that made vice a crime. I've bought a home in Los Angeles, and since that law I feel that my children are going to grow up clean and strong.

It was the voting women who wiped out the red light districts in Salt Lake, Denver and Chicago. Just as they are wiping out the saloon. Vice and drunkenness! The two always go together, and wherever they go you'll find sickness and disease and misery.

All this may sound funny from a prize fighter. But just remember that I was a husband and a father before I entered the ring. And because I am champion I claim that maybe boys will listen to me when they would give anybody else the laugh as a "sissy."

You can't be strong and well unless you live right. When you go up against nature you get the worst of it every time. And nature doesn't stand for whiskey and lust.

(Tomorrow Willard will tell about fighters who saved their money and what they are doing with it).

Held for Assault with Intent to Kill

ATTLEBORO, July 8.—After an all-day session in court Gaetano Cipriano was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury at Fall River on the charge of assault with intent to kill, on John Calendrala last December. Cipriano slashed Calendrala several times with a knife and then shot at him twice with a revolver when he tried to escape, the evidence showed. Calendrala's search for Cipriano was rewarded in Boston, where he found him on Hanover street. After a tussle Calendrala got Cipriano to a police station, where he was locked up.

A MOTORMAN TOLD STORY TO HUSBAND
Mrs. B. L. Reynolds of Wakefield Took Advice Given Better Half.
Owing to the widespread nature of stomach trouble the symptoms are liable to appear in any part of the body and the patient, not being able to determine why this pain should appear, immediately seeks relief for the symptoms only. This is found to be the case in the majority of testimonials received for the herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice, which is now being introduced here.
Mrs. B. L. Reynolds, who resided at No. 212 Albion street, Wakefield, and who is a well known and popular lady here, stated:
"I had stomach trouble, which took the form of nervous indigestion, for the past year. I used to have pains in the stomach which lasted from 12 to 15 hours at a time; gas on stomach, fermentation of food, nervous and dizzy spells. I reduced from 140 to 124 pounds. I tried various kinds of medicine, but did not seem to get any relief from them. I have read about Plant Juice in the daily papers, and a motorman told my husband about it. I have used four bottles, and I am feeling fine. My health has improved since taking Plant Juice, and I am recommending your medicine to all of my friends."
There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any of the following may denote affections of the stomach: indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, bad breath, sick headache, headache, poor circulation, night sweats, that tired feeling, constipation, coated tongue or a poor complexion.
Plant Juice is a vegetable tonic, extracted from the roots, leaves, bark fiber and bloom of numerous plants. It is Nature's own remedy and works wonders. It gives almost immediate benefit and it leads to permanent relief in practically every case where people suffer as above outlined.
The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett drug store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he gladly meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

FEAR GERMANY'S LUSITANIA NOTE WILL BE UNSATISFACTORY

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Secretary of State Lansing expects to receive today instructions from President Wilson as to what answer shall be sent Ambassador Gerard on the German note.

Ambassador Gerard cabled extracts from the note which will shortly be sent by Germany to the United States. He asked for instructions. The extracts indicated that the German note would be unsatisfactory to this country.

According to the opinion in well informed quarters, President Wilson will not enter into any bargaining with Germany.

The one thing which stands out prominently is that Germany is not inclined to agree to the demands of the United States.

Up to the past week officials here were inclined to be hopeful, but the evident efforts of the Kaiser's advisers during the past few days to temporize has made a bad impression.

One theory has been put forward to account for the seeming change of feeling on the part of the Kaiser's advisers. It is that they have come to believe that a large proportion of the American public entertain similar views to those of ex Secretary Bryan, who in an interview with the Austrian ambassador was reported willing to accept a compromise of the items stated by President Wilson.

During the day Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, took his family to Cohasset, Mass., to Cedarhurst, L. I., to find two comfortable homes for Secretary Lansing on his elevation to the secretaryship of State, and added informally concerning the latest phase of the negotiations conducted through Ambassador Gerard in Berlin.

The Secretary, in accordance with diplomatic courtesy on such occasions, outlined to Count von Bernstorff in a general way what had been transmitted by Ambassador Gerard, but gave no intimation as to the course which the United States government would follow.

After the conference it was said that Count Bernstorff learned that Ambassador Gerard's message was not of a character which would necessarily require an answer.

Although officials were generally reticent concerning the nature of Ambassador Gerard's conversation with German foreign office functionaries, it was said that his message did not make clear whether the German government had asked him to obtain the views of the United States on the tentative draft, or whether in showing him a copy the implication was that the American government could, if it chose, comment on it before the note was completed.

Some of the President's advisers seem to think advantage should be taken of the opportunity to reiterate most firmly that the United States having stated its position on the law and the fact can make no concessions from its strictly legal position until there is a clear understanding on Germany's attitude toward the principle involved visit and search before destroying unresisting merchantmen.

According to Secretary Lansing, no information has come as to the date when the German reply will be formally delivered to Ambassador Gerard.

Many Boston Men Enroll for U. S. Officers' School

The "preparedness for defence" movement has scored its first success in this part of the country with the enrollment of seventy patriotic business and professional men of Boston for training officers against the contingency of war at the Plattsburg camp for the month of instruction, August 10 to September 7.

Boston's quota is limited to about 100, and at the present rate of application there will soon be an oversupply. The committee, whose headquarters are in the Shawmut Bank building, telephone number "Main 7124," is offering to take up with the employers the question of obtaining leave of absence for their employes. The desire is to obtain men of education and, if possible, of some military training.

Astor's Widow Spends a Cent, Weighs 153

BAR HARBOR, Me., July 8.—Mrs. John Jacob Astor, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Force, drove to the wharf at Bar Harbor to meet her sister, Katherine Force, who arrived on the New York train. Mrs. Astor greeted her sister with a kiss, saying at the same time, "Oh, Katherine, have you a penny?"

The borrowed penny, once in her possession, Mrs. Astor ran across the wharf like a child, stopped before a penny weighing machine, stepped on to the scales, and deliberately spent her penny.

As the needle on the scale moved slowly upward Mrs. Astor eyed it with no little concern until it stopped on the 153-pound mark, then with a hasty glance over her shoulder she gave a sign of either relief or despair, stepped hastily off the scale and ran to join her mother and sister, who were going off up the wharf.

Women Object to Portrayal of Militants

Suffragists today are discussing their victory over the Rev. Frederick A. Wilmot, author of the Somerville world peace pageant, when they compelled the removal of a scene intended to burlesque the pursuit of John Bull by English militant suffragettes.

The "votes for women" contingent first objected to the scene at a dress rehearsal of the pageant, when Mrs. May Knight Southwell and Miss Frances Kaan took it upon themselves to protest. For a time it looked as if the pageant of peace might result in scenes of controversy, but when it was explained to the women that the scene was intended to be at once humorous and satirical and that no damage to the "cause" was intended, the protest was withdrawn.

The women appeared satisfied and nothing more happened until a delegation of women later waited on the pastor-author and demanded that the scene be removed.

Rev. Mr. Wilmot said: "The ladies appeared very much worked up, so the scene was cut and a suffragist feature enlarged so that there will be no gap in the performance.

CARMEN PUT LIMIT ON ARBITRATION

The employes of the Bay State Street Railway Company have today made up their minds that in the future there will be no further arbitration proceedings between them and the company, unless it is agreed beforehand that the law of supply and demand and the company's financial condition shall not be taken into consideration. The union, by an almost unanimous vote, has passed a resolution to this effect.

The resolution follows the award of Joseph C. Pelletier, chairman of the board of arbitration which recently heard the merits of the controversy between the employes and the company. The award is not satisfactory to the employes and upon its publication there were threats it would not be accepted. Cooler counsel prevailed and the men have accepted the award but at the same time are saying "never again" on further arbitration proceedings when this agreement expires unless the two factors above named are eliminated.

In their resolution the men quote James J. Storrow, arbitrator in the Boston Elevated Company dispute, to the effect that men are right in their contention that the financial condition of the company shall have no bearing on the question of their wages.

With regard to the supply and demand of labor question the resolution says there is only one way to try it out and that is to strike. As the men in arbitration proceedings agree not to strike, they say the company takes advantage of this agreement when it presents arguments to the effect it can readily replace its employes.

FINDS WAY TO FIGHT JITNEYS

Tomorrow officials of the Waltham Auto Bus Company will appear in court.

The step has been decided upon by the police after a long study of the situation by City Solicitor Elias H. Richey, who has decided that the company is violating the ordinance relating to the operation of a hackney carriage within the city limits, which calls for the licensing of such a vehicle by the aldermen.

After several weeks of indecision, during which time the Waltham Auto Bus Company has been operating its jitney buses through the streets of Newton without a license from the Newton Board of Aldermen, the police department of that city have asked for a summons against the bus company and a chauffeur and a conductor who operate cars in Newton. If no favorable decision is given, the Waltham corporation will take the case to the Supreme Court for settlement. It is the first case of its kind which has come up in the State.

Judge Makes Five Champs in His Court

There are five more "champs" in the world as the result of Judge Flint's action in the Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham, when he allowed Joseph M. Champ of Randolph, his wife and three children to change their name. Thus the family roster reads: Joseph M. and Gertrude L. Champ; Esther M., five and one-half years; Norman A., three years, and Amy E. Champ, eighteen months.

Champ, a tailor, in his petition, said that he wished to change his name so that agreed upon when, with his three brothers, he emigrated A the age of fourteen from his birthplace, St. Bartolomeo, Italy. Under this name he married and applied for his naturalization papers.

Mrs. Champ was born in Randolph, January 1, 1884, and married April 12, 1909. Since that time the family has lived in Brockton, Stoughton and Randolph.

FREE FILM SHOW ON THE COMMON

The free motion picture show inaugurated on the Common will be repeated tonight. Time, 8:15; place, Parkman bandstand; program, similar to last night.

A record crowd greeted the premier performance. The new idea is produced through the co-operation of ten social organizations.

A slide of a white kitten and blue bird, bearing the legend "Welcome" was thrown on the screen. From north, south, east and west came the scurry of feet as the crowd, sweeping in on the bandstand, ran to a point of vantage.

Views of the Atlantic fleet, reviewed in New York, brought applause, and President Wilson's picture was cheered. The program consisted of motion pictures, a news weekly, educational views and stereopticon slides. A phonograph furnished the music.

CELESTIA gave the word for the night and asked the man what he was guarding.

He shook his head.

"But I want to go in and see for myself," said Celestia. "Mr. Kehr told me that I could go anywhere I liked."

"Door locked," said the man simply, "and Mr. Kehr don't want any one fooling round this building."

"Haven't you got the key?"

His eyes were beginning to feel the magic of her eyes, and his ears of her voice.

"I have not."

"But you know where it is?"

"What if I do?"

"Why, you'd tell me, and I could get it and open this door."

The man tried to laugh roughly and failed.

"Where is it?" she asked.

There was a short battle of eyes, and Celestia, as usual, conquered.

"Mr. Kehr said you could go where you liked?"

Celestia simply nodded and continued to look the man in the eyes. He hesitated a moment and then leaned over and lifted a large, flat stone. Under the stone a bright, nickel-plated key shone in the moonlight.

"Thank you," said Celestia; and she took the key and opened the iron door of the little iron house and went in.

"For God's sake," said the man, all trembling now at what he had done, "don't touch anything. Only look!"

"Then," said Celestia, "come and show me what there is to see. It's all dark in here."

The man followed her hastily into the building and struck a match.

"That there!" he said in a whisper; "that there switch. That's all there is to see. Now come out. Please do."

The match had gone out. Celestia followed the sentry into the open air, and while he relocked the door and retid the key she thanked him very graciously, as if he had done her some small, gracious favor.

Well, she had seen the switch, and just before the match went out she had read these words painted on a rectangle of white cardboard:

"Don't touch. Dynamite."

"And what," she said sweetly, "are your orders about that switch? What will be the occasion of setting off the dynamite?"

The sentry affected not to hear.

"You have to tell me," said Celestia.

After a moment's silence he said:

"I'm only to close the circuit only on a direct order from Mr. Kehr. I don't know why I'm to close it. Or what will happen if I do."

"When you do," said Celestia, "lots of poor wives will be left without husbands, and lots of poor babies will be left without fathers."

The sentry shuddered.

"So you won't obey that order, will you?"

"An order is an order, ma'sm."

"I am giving you an order."

"I take my orders from Mr. Kehr."

"The order I am giving you is from God. Look at me."

He looked at her, and after a time, whether the order came to him from God or not, he knew that he must obey it.

Celestia strolled away in the moonlight. "Soon," she thought, "I shall have arranged that there shall be no defence; I must also arrange that there shall be no attack. No wonder that so many human beings don't seem to be human."

Kehr talks with the miners, with no intention of granting their demands

Then she lifted her sweet voice, and called for Freddie the Ferret, but he did not answer to his name. He had gotten himself left behind in the town, and she was worried about him. But not very much. She thought that he might have followed her and been let into the stockade. But this couldn't be so, or he would have answered.

At least he had nothing to fear from the sentries. She had told them about him, and they would pass on the word, and anyway they weren't going to shoot to kill. Furthermore, Freddie had a delightful faculty of landing on his feet.

Since returning from the town she had not seen Stilliter. She wondered what he was doing and why she couldn't like him.

If Celestia had had a square deal from Kehr she might have reduced the hostile feelings of the strikers and the strike-breakers to nothing and brought about peace in Bitumen. But it was written that while she slept soundly in the little house which had been set aside for her use Kehr, who never slept in times of danger, went on a midnight tour of inspection, and made certain discoveries which filled him with anger and anxiety. The very first sentry whom he talked to made a damaging confession.

"Seen nothing tonight?" Kehr asked.

"Only the lady, sir."

"What lady?"

"The lady in white."

"Oh."

"Yes, sir."

The sentry gave the appearance of one who wishes to speak but is afraid.

"Well, what is it?"

"After talking with her, sir, I think I ought to be relieved. My orders is to shoot to kill. After talking with her, sir, I couldn't do it."

"You wouldn't obey my orders?"

"I couldn't, sir."

Their Married Life

Winifred Gets Mysteriously Lost and Helen Gets a Terrible Fright

Copyright, 1915, International News Service.

"WHAT on earth is the matter, Nora?" said Helen, as she was met at the door. Nora had a most agonized expression on her face and kept wringing. "What is it?" insisted Helen, shaking the girl in her excitement.

"Oh, Mrs. Curtis," began Nora.

"It isn't anything about Winifred, is it?"

"Yes, ma'am, she is gone."

"Gone?" almost screamed Helen. "What do you mean? For heaven's sake, Nora, stop crying and tell me."

Nora opened her eyes wide at Helen's harsh tone.

"Yes, ma'am," she began. "It was about half an hour ago, ma'am, and I was doing my work. I thought Winifred was playing around in the front room, but when I went to look for her she was gone."

Helen was looking around wildly. "You don't mean that she has gone outside?"

"Yes'm," said Norah. "The door was open. I don't see how it happened, but it must have been left open somehow."

She turned and ran out into the hall. The hall on that floor was empty, of course. It would be if Winifred had been missing half an hour. She ran hastily for the elevator and questioned the boy as soon as he came up.

"No," he said, frightened at her manner, "I haven't seen no little girl."

Helen was at her wits' end. What should she do? There was not a soul in the street. Mrs. Wiggin had wandered off and should be picked up by some unscrupulous people? It wasn't such an unlikely thing these days. Ought she to telephone Warren? Perhaps the police ought to be notified.

The elevator boy, now as frightened as he was, whirled up stairs again.

"Nora, I am going to telephone Mr. Curtis. I don't know what else to do."

"I know, ma'am," began Nora, once a woman lost her little girl in the apartment where Mrs. Stevens lives, and they found her the next day at the top of the house, over, ma'am, Lizzie was telling me."

"Keep still, Nora," said Helen, her hands over her ears.

Suppose something of the kind happened to Winifred! Her little baby, in her white socks and with her tawny little topknot bobbing up and down as she shook her head. Oh, she couldn't bear it, she couldn't! She would have to telephone Warren.

At the telephone she tried to calm herself, but when she got the office Mr. Curtis had just gone to lunch.

"Tell him to call me," she said, speaking hoarsely.

Where would Winifred be likely to go? She disliked strangers, and yet if she had gone to any one Helen knew, they would have let her know long ago.

Dr. Martin, downstairs, thought Helen suddenly. Winifred was very fond of the young man. She might have gone to him. But the doctor himself at the telephone told Helen that he had not seen Winifred. He was very much concerned and wanted to know if he could do anything.

Helen said she thought not, but where could the child be? She would have to begin and ask at every apartment in the building. It would look strange, and Helen had no desire to form unnecessary acquaintances, but something had to be done, and that quickly. The first apartment was owned by a wealthy woman. Helen had seen her several times in the elevator, and knew that she kept a butler and two maids. The little parlor maid was very solicitous.

"Madame was out," she explained, "and they had not seen the little girl."

Helen hurried away without stopping for more. She tried two more places, and had no luck. Then she found herself back on her own floor. A new family had moved in next door, and there were a couple of children, a little girl of about Winifred's age. She rang the bell, and the next moment found herself standing in the hall of an apartment similar to hers. The woman who opened the door was in black, and was very sweet looking. She smiled and beckoned to Helen as though they had known each other for some time. In the dining room on the floor, her arms full of dolls, sat Winifred.

Opposite her was the little girl that Helen had seen arranging the rooms in the large doll's house. With an inarticulate murmur Helen had slipped to the floor and had Winifred up in her arms and smothering her with kisses.

Back in her own apartment, she said for the hundredth time, more or less, "you must never go away again, baby, never; mother was frightened." To Warren's imperative telephone call she replied happily: "Yes, dear, we found her in the next apartment."

"That's what you get for gadding around every hour of the day," he remarked sarcastically. "It's a pity you can't stay home once in a while and pay attention to the one child we have." Helen did not answer this time. She was too happy to care.

Another incident in this drama of domestic life will appear here soon.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

Who can tell the working of children's minds, or how, all unwittingly, we may make ourselves appear unjust in our dealings toward them?

This was brought home to Mr. Heewit the other day as he took his young hopeful, aged six, for a constitutional. The youngster was evidently thinking hard, for he was silent—which was unusual.

"Daddy," he said, looking up suddenly, "I think I want to get married."

"Do you, my son? And who to, may I ask?" answered the proud parent, looking at him.

"I want to marry granny."

"Do you, indeed? And do you think I would let you marry my mother—eh?"

"Well, why shouldn't I?" retorted the tender lover. "You married father, didn't you?"

"What is the flavor of white meat?" demanded the chief, his face reddening lightly on his mighty tomahawk.

"Braised motor-cyclist, O most wonderful and wise."

"He tasted very burnt," meaningly remarked he of the blood royal, half rising from his seat, still clasping his tomahawk.

"Mercy, O beautiful and good!" exclaimed the chef, falling on his knees hurriedly. "He was scorching when we caught him, O King."

Mary's Little Lamb

Miss Mary was the possessor of a diminutive and immature specimen of the Ovis Aries, a wool-bearing and ruminant quadruped, whose flesh is highly esteemed by persons to whose gustatory organs its flavor is agreeable.

The shaggy and agglomerated filaments, constituting in their collective capacity its natural outer covering, integument, or garment, presented to the vision a surface absolutely sterilized and silvified, and rivaling in immaculateness the lustrous mantle of crystallized vapor that commonly characterizes the Winter landscape.

And whatsoever locality, contiguous or remote, whither Mary's vagrant fancy, the call of duty, or perchance the parental mandate, impelled her, when not otherwise engaged, to betake herself, this juvenescent representative of the genus Ovis Aries, with a fidelity remarkable in one so immature and inexperienced, could be counted upon with absolute and entire certainty to accompany her.

A Sure Way to Remove Coarse, Hairy Growths

Stubborn growths of coarse hair which have been caused by the unwise use of pastes and rub-on preparations can be devitalized with Dr. Miracle, the original liquid hair remover, because it attacks hair under the skin as well as on the skin. Le Bon Ton says: Dr. Miracle is "the best method in the world today." Only genuine publications of the highest character are quoted by us. Beware of so-called hair removers which are supposedly recommended through bogus quotations from reputable magazines which do not exist. Learning How to Talk

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

SOME folks think conversation comes by the grace of Heaven—but nothing is farther from the truth. One might as well say playing the violin comes by nature. No human being—no matter how musical—could play a simple lullaby on the violin without first learning. Of course a maestro might play by ear without lessons—but not without practice. And most mortals need all the aid good instruction can give them.

Well, by the same token of practical common sense, although a favored few talk glibly and even pleasantly by instinct, even they do not get far without study, without practice and without taking infinite pains.

Of course the obvious way to improve in conversation is to talk—provided one talks as well as one is able. But it would be well to force no man or woman to take a tenth as much pains to learn the game of conversation as to master the latest fox trot step or to learn the game of golf. And yet conversation is a game that can never go out of style and that will be important as long as mortals have ears and tongues.

Here are a few rules of practice for learning the gentle art of conversation:

Talk as well as possible to all sorts of people. Adapt yourself to moods, to character and to varying ages.

Make it your business to say what you want to convey so you shall be thoroughly understood by the individual you address. Be clear and simple.

When you are thrown with an utterly dull person who seems almost dumb prize yourself on finding out something about which he can talk. Anyone can talk about something. Even an utter fool can tell you about himself. Get into the habit of drawing out the silent and taciturn. As they expand into conversation you will get a sort of perspective on your own lesser difficulties in finding conversational material.

The very best school for conversation is, of course, good reading. The classical novels will acquaint you to English used with charm and certainty and exactitude. The right word in the right place will come, through good reading, to have a meaning all its own to you. Don't read to quote—don't read to talk with "high-falutin" and literary elegance. Read to see how words can be moulded into a living mass to express just the meaning in the modeller's mind.

After you have read a bit don't get to thinking you are all wise—the field of classic lore is just the English language is wide indeed. Don't be pedantic about what you know—don't try to make it seem overwhelming. Be overwhelmed yourself by all there is left for you to read.

Shakespeare and Goethe will prove interesting after you have accustomed yourself to a school of reading in which, "Said she languidly" and "He exclaimed with flashing eyes" do not make up for nicety—for exactness in modelling words into a breathing expression of thought.

It is obvious that all knowledge will help you in conversation. A little anecdote about your washerwoman's boy may lighten a dull moment. It is well to keep up with the times. The editorial pages of the newspapers in themselves offer a training for interesting comment. Whether you agree or intelligently differ with what you have read. If you have read good book reviews and criticisms of popular plays you can talk about the originals with those who have first-hand knowledge.

There are two classics about boredom which you must avoid if you want to be known as a good conversationalist. A bore has been defined as "a person who talks about himself when I want to talk about myself." Don't let yourself be so defined. Talk about the other chap, let him fall into the category of bores, but avoid that Slough of Despond for your own social reputation.

Then a bore has been called "a person who, when you ask him how he feels—tells you!" Don't, don't, as you value your friendly place in the minds of men, tell them all about your last headache, nor how you can't sleep in hot weather, nor how you have all the symptoms of appendicitis. Rather than that, use even the stupid old expression, "Fine and dandy!" when asked how you feel. But don't go into a clinical and medical mass of detail. Save symptoms for the doctor. You will pay him to listen to the story then.

And finally—to talk well, broaden your horizon. Everything in the world about you—be it a crying baby in the subway or the latest Bolshevik—has possibilities of interest and interesting possibilities. Observe—consider—comment. Don't turn your mind in on yourself, but expansively offer it to the world for impressions. And then exchange opinions with the people you meet.

Soon sparkling and idle chatter will be as unnatural as dumbness. You will have acquired for yourself the supreme gift of charm—that of being a pleasant and interesting conversationalist.

They Did the Work

The Englishman was admiring the easy attitude of a Scottish pipper. Then he began asking questions.

"How does the bagpipe work?" was one of his queries.

The Highlander smiled.

"Ye see, these three pipes up here?" he replied, pointing on his shoulder. "Well, they're the drones. Tak' them away, an' the rest o' the ceasirument wad be just like—like a common pianny."

Summer-Spoiled Skin Removed by Absorption

An undue summer exposure usually leaves an undesirable surface of tan, redness or roughness, often freckles, too, the sensible thing to do is to remove such surface. Find nothing better for this than ordinary mercolized wax, as its action is positive as an unwholesome complexion. The thin layer of surface skin itself is absorbed gradually. So you will get one ounce of mercolized wax at the druggists, use it for a week or so, you may expect fairest improvement daily. While the underlying skin is wholly in view your complexion will be a marvel of spotless purity and beautiful whiteness.

Don't let those summer troubles worry you, worry breeds more troubles. Banish them so! Bathe your face in hot water, dry, then apply lightly a bit of mercolized wax as directed daily for a while this will be found to be a reliable advertisement.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELPS

COMPLEXION BEAUTIFIER—Nothing is more repulsive than to see a woman with her face all daubed with face powder in her desire to hide marks of age. Instead of using powder, which clogs, and enlarges the pores, it is far better to use a good face lotion that will improve and permanently benefit the skin. By dissolving four ounces of spermax in one-half pint hot water you can make an inexpensive lotion that will do wonders as a skin whitener and complexion beautifier. It removes all shininess, sallowness and freckles, and gives the skin a smooth, velvety tone, while it does not rub off easily like powder, nor show on the skin.

MAKES HAIR FLUFFY—By washing the hair with a teaspoonful of ammonia dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterward rinsing thoroughly with clear water, one finds it dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and very fluffy, so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. This simple, inexpensive shampoo cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all dandruff and dirt, and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. All scalp irritation will disappear, and the hair will be brighter and glossier than ever before.—Advertisement.

GERMAN REPORT ON BATTLE OF CORONA

BERLIN, July 8.—How the naval battle off Corona November 1 between the British and German ships was fought until darkness ended hostilities and how the British war vessels Good Hope and Monmouth went down with flags flying, was told in Admiral Von Spee's report of the engagement, just received and made public today. Owing to the heavy seas it was impossible to rescue any of the Monmouth's crew. The engagement lasted less than an hour.

After describing the manoeuvring on both sides, the admiral's report says:

At 6.50 o'clock p. m. when at a distance 234 hectometers I altered our course one point toward the enemy. At 6.54 we opened fire at a range of 104 hectometers. The head wind and sea caused the ships to roll and pitch, particularly the small cruisers.

It was very difficult for the range finders to make observations. The sea swept over the forecastles and conning towers, preventing the use of some guns on the middle decks, where the crews were never able to see the sterns of the enemy's boats, and only occasionally their bows.

On the other hand two armoured cruisers worked splendidly.

At 6.59 o'clock the first hit was recorded. It struck the Good Hope. Shortly afterward the British opened fire. I believe they suffered more from the heavy seas than did we.

The Scharnhorst reckons that the Good Hope was hit thirty-five times. The enemy doubted the success of his artillery and was manoeuvring for torpedo firing. The position of the moon, which rose about 6 o'clock, favored this.

When darkness set in the range finders on the Scharnhorst, for a moment, used the reflections of the fires which had broken out on the Good Hope.

Finding the observation more difficult we ceased fire at 7.06. At 7.23 a big explosion was observed between the funnels of the Good Hope. As far as I could see the ship did not fire after that.

Sayville Radio Station Taken By Government

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today announced that he had instructed Captain Bullard, chief of the radio service of the navy, to take possession today of the wireless station at Sayville.

Captain Bullard was in Philadelphia yesterday examining the inventor of the alleged secret code system by which German representatives in the United States are said to have sent military information from Sayville to their submarine fleet off the British coast.

The government assumed direct charge of the Sayville plant because it was unable to prevent by censorship the sending of such unneutral messages.

In an official statement the Navy Department announced that this action was taken under an executive order of August 5, 1914, regarding taking over of high-powered stations.

The statement added:

"Captain Bullard reached New York this morning and will confer with the owners of the station in all that relates to the details of the operation of the station. Practically the same rules and regulations as are now applicable to Tuckerton will be put in operation at Sayville."

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 8.—George Cook Wiehl, son of a banker, was playing golf at the Country Club with two friends. At the fifth tee Wiehl made the drive. When the ball had sailed through the air fifty yards it struck a redheaded woodpecker which was flying in the opposite direction and killed the bird instantly.

(Tack) Hardwick, Harvard's wonderful all-around athlete, who was graduated last month, and Miss Margaret Stone, a Bryn Mawr graduate of last year and second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galen L. Stone of No. 149 Bockminster road, Brookline, were married at "Great Hill," the Stone Summer estate at Marion, this noon, with the most sumptuous bridal that ever graced the Buzzard's Bay shore.

Nearly 1,000 guests from Greater Boston and the North Shore went to the wedding on a special train which left the South Station at 9.15. Hundreds of guests from the Buzzards Bay and Vineyard sound shores came to "Great Hill" in automobiles. The fashionable Summer colonies of that seashore section flocked to the bridal.

"Great Hill" is a magnificent estate. The house, which has been compared to an English castle, is surrounded by extensive grounds. The house was adorned richly with flowers, practically all gathered on the estate.

The grounds were decorated. Mr. Stone had ushing strung about the grounds in honor of his daughter's nuptial day. White ribbons were tied on rose bushes and other flowering shrubs. Nothing was omitted to enhance the bridal atmosphere.

Even the weather was gracious. Rain fell in the early morning hours. But at 10 o'clock the skies cleared and smiled the way they are supposed to for the wedding of the young.

"COLLEGE" WEDDING.

The "college crowd" was naturally a large element. "Tack" Hardwick is held by his mates as one of the greatest chaps that ever went out of Harvard and his colleagues in class societies and sports were there to see him wed.

Many of the bride's Bryn Mawr friends were present, so the feminine side of undergraduate life was attractively represented as well.

"Great Hill" is quite a place for romance. Two years ago Miss Katherine Stone, elder sister of today's bride, was married there to Richard F. Hoyt. Hardwick was at that ceremony. The romance which brought today's wedding began at that time and the engagement was announced last November. So "Great Hill" holds a particular appeal for the young couple.

CEREMONY IN MAIN PARLOR.

Symphony Orchestra musicians played the wedding music. The ceremony took place in the main paler, the couple standing under a floral arch. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William H. Lyon, D. D., of the First Parish Church (Unitarian) of Brookline.

Miss Nathalie Dumper of Beacon street, Brookline, was maid of honor. The bride's younger sister, Miss Barbara Stone, was flower girl.

The bridesmaids were Miss Edith Stevens of Beacon street and Miss Constance Kellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vail Kellen of Commonwealth avenue.

Thomas Hardwick, Harvard '12, brother of "Tack," was best man. The ushers were Robert Stone, brother of the bride, and four classmates of Mr. Hardwick, Russell Frye, Frederick J. Bradley, T. Emerson Murphy and Walter Trumbull, who was acting-captain of the Harvard eleven last year when Captain Brickley was ill.

After the ceremony there came the reception and wedding breakfast. The couple left in an automobile for a honeymoon trip.

Huntington R. (Tack) Hardwick, Harvard's wonderful all-around athlete, who was graduated last month, and Miss Margaret Stone, a Bryn Mawr graduate of last year and second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Galen L. Stone of No. 149 Bockminster road, Brookline, were married at "Great Hill," the Stone Summer estate at Marion, this noon, with the most sumptuous bridal that ever graced the Buzzard's Bay shore.

SAUGUS PAGEANT TO BE REPEATED

The Saugus pageant is to be repeated Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The pageant, which was arranged as a feature of the town's centennial celebration, is a splendid spectacle and has attracted wide interest because of the elaborateness of the production.

There are ten episodes, the first being the "Burial of Pennacook." This is particularly impressive. It is made of the Saugus River, up which paddle the Indian Montowampate and his braves. Even more striking is the departure of the Saugus Sachem, his squaws and followers down the river.

Another interesting number of the spectacle is the "Pirates of Pirate Glen," which is based on an old legend in the town. Next comes an episode woven about the first speech for liberty ever delivered in America. This is followed by the "Crowning of King Pompey," "The Lexington Alarm" and "The Parting of the Ways."

The seventh episode introduces the Saugus seminary. The other episodes are the return of the Saugus soldiers from the Civil War, "The Coming of the Races" and "The Spirit of America."

The pageant is produced amid surroundings which are historic and picturesque and near the famous Appleton Pulpit Rock which is close to the shore of the Saugus River.

MAINE MAN IS FLEECED OF $50

Michael Laizzo of Livermore Falls, Me., is a sadder and wiser man after his first experience with a scheming "con" man of the big city.

Michael reached Boston today on the Bangor boat with $50 and a Canadian quarter in his pocket. Mounting an Elevated stairway at Rowe's Wharf, Michael noted a well-dressed chap ahead of him. He saw the chap stoop, and lo and behold, the stranger picked up what Michael took to be a $100 bill.

"Say, friend, you saw me pick it up, didn't you?" said the stranger to Michael. "Now, I suppose I've got to go halves with you. You'll have to change it; I can't."

Michael naively brought out his fifty.

"Give me the fifty and I'll give you the hundred," said the stranger.

A few minutes later Michael showed his quarter at the Elevated ticket window.

"Can't accept it; it's Canadian," said the ticket seller.

Then Michael, thinking to knock 'em flat, produced the $100 bill.

"Why, that's nothing but a Confederate, and worthless," said the girl behind the window. On her advice Michael told his story to a kind policeman and up at police headquarters was shown hundreds of photographs in the rogues' gallery in the hope of finding that of the man who took the money.

We Eat Too Much, Says Henry Ford

DETROIT, July 8.—Dr. James E. Mead, chief physician of the new Ford Hospital, has been directed by Henry Ford to establish a department of dietetics, the object of which will be to teach the public to eat less and how to eat it.

"Eat only when hungry" said Mr. Ford, "and then eat less than you feel you need. Try it for a week and I'll guarantee you will feel healthier."

Only 29 Ships Sunk in 20,000 Sailings

LONDON, Thursday, July 8.—Nearly 20,000 vessels have entered or left the port of Liverpool since the German submarine blockade began. This, said Sir A. Norman Hill, Secretary of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association, speaking at Liverpool, showed that the Germans had failed in their attempt to blockade British ports.

On these 20,000 voyages the Germans had captured or destroyed only twenty-nine ships, he continued.

SPEED KINGS HERE FOR AUTO RACES

Several of the crack automobile racers entered for the races next Saturday afternoon at Readville were on hand today ready to start practice, but were foiled by the return of rain. The races were postponed from last Monday on account of the rain. All of the other drivers will be on from New York tomorrow to get familiar with the track before it is oiled for after that time they cannot use it until they compete.

Members of the Bay State A. A. who are to act as officials will be at the track tomorrow watching the preliminary practice.

Matty Matthews, who is in charge of the events, has gone to New York and when he returns tomorrow will probably have secured some more stars for the six fast races scheduled for Saturday. Already seventeen automobile speed kings are ready to start.

Coach Courtney's Skull Fractured

ITHACA, N. Y., July 8.—An X-ray examination has been made of Coach Charles E. Courtney at a hospital here, confirming the belief of the physicians that the veteran crew tutor is suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull. Local physicians are considering the advisability of calling in a specialist from Johns Hopkins University, although "the old man" is reported as resting comfortably.

Injured Knee Put Baker Out of Meet

NEW YORK, July 8.—It has been definitely announced that Homer Baker, the international hair-puller of the New York A. C. will not go to France for the National A. A. championships. An examination of Baker's injured knee by Dr. Joseph A. Delin showed that the left cartilage had been torn, and the runner is said to be laid up for a spell. NEW YORK, July 8.—After one of the fastest and closest yacht races seen in many a long day, the Resolute defeated the Vanitie by 1 minute 6 seconds actual and 1 minute 15 seconds corrected time over a 30 mile triangular course on Long Island Sound.

It was the third time the two cup defenders have met this season and while the Resolute won both races the victory was not decisive as the latter proved quite a peer in the result.

SAYLOR EXPECTS TO BEAT WHITE

There should be plenty of action at the Atha A. A. next Tuesday night when Charley White, the Chicago lightweight, meets Milburn (Young) Saylor of Indianapolis in a 12-round bout.

There are very few idle moments whenever White is in the ring. Saylor, who is a fast hitter, awkward as they make them and a puncher of no little ability himself, ought to make things interesting for the Chicago star.

It has been a big desire of Saylor's to get a crack at White. The Indianapolis Hoosier, while he has great respect for the Chicago man's fighting qualities, is of the opinion that White can be defeated the same as any other fighter, and is just that conceited to think that he can score a knockout victory over White.

From what Saylor has shown in action in Boston rings would make him appear to have equally as good, if not a better, chance than some of the others White has met here. Saylor can punch pretty hard, and as White has never shown here whether he could take a good one on the jaw the outcome of their meeting is up in the air as it were.

That middleweight bout between George Robinson and Dan McDonald will hardly be overlooked.

Winthrop Y. C. to Hold Race Saturday

The Winthrop Yacht Club will sail its first open race Saturday at Winthrop under the direction of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Union. The Winthrop club is one of the liveliest organization to be found anywhere along the coast.

The race this year will be for cash prizes and will count in the championship standing of the Yacht Racing Union.

It will be the one big event of Saturday and a fleet of over fifty racing craft will be at the starting line.

An unusual feature of this race is the racing circular issued by the Winthrop club.

It is a booklet giving the courses and all the particulars of the race together with half tones of the officers of the club and the clubhouse. It also gives a brief history of the club and photographs of some of the clubs fast boats.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS By A. H. C. Mitchell

THE Red Sox leave for the West today tied for first place, to all intents and purposes, with the White Sox. Only two points in a thousand separate the two teams. The White Sox will probably play off today the game that was stopped by rain yesterday. If they lose Our Boys will sail into Detroit about 8:30 tomorrow morning in first place.

The Tigers are fighting for their lives and the series against Our Boys that opens tomorrow afternoon, they will do their very best to kick the enemy down the ladder. It will be a merry old series, no doubt.

OUR Boys have a very strenuous campaign in the West ahead of them. They must play twenty-two games in seventeen days. The hardest part of it will be in St. Louis, where they are billed for seven games in five days. And St. Louis is the hottest town in Summer of the entire circuit.

THE Braves are back home. The Champs return from a little trip, but it has been a most disastrous jaunt. Beaten and buffeted in New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, they wound up like the Boston Nationals of old, who used to strike eighth place sometime in June and stay there.

But something tells me that the Braves will shake off their doodoo very soon. The punch is there if they can get number bow to deliver it. Though in last place, the race in the National League is so compact that it would not take the Braves long to climb to the top if they ever get started in that direction.

THE punch must come in short order, however, if Stallings' men are to make any kind of a showing this season. The baseball year is half spent. There can be no dilly-dallying from now on.

Doubtless, the Braves have their alibis. Let the alibis stay in the background. Let them get together and show us what they can do.

CHILDS, HAROLD has confounded his enemies, and by his dazzling play and his brilliant stick work, has turned boots into cheers. They cheered Harold wildly all through the matinee on Tuesday when he drove out four safe hits and made plays as good as ever seen at Fenway Park.

They cheered Harold Leay, but he didn't pull the viser of his cap, according to the time-honored custom of recipients of baseball applause.

Why should he?

The same crowd that booted him, cast aspersions at him, and heaped verbal abuse last week, applauded his brilliant work this week.

"Fell with 'em," Harold doubtless said to himself, while the cheers for him were ringing in his ears. "They'll be panning me tomorrow if I bust one or strike out in a pinch."

HAROLD has never had a real chance at any position since he first joined the Red Sox. He never knew what his next job would be. When Clyde Engle fell away off in his batting last season, Harold was shoved in at first base. When Larry Gardner hurt himself, Harold played third. After Yerkes was released, Harold was told to cover second.

DURING the training season at Hot Springs, early this year, Harold played second base regularly. But just as the championship season started, he had an affliction of the eyes and had to sit on the bench while Heinie Wagner played the bag.

Next day Larry Gardner became ill and had to go home. Harold's eyes were far from well, but he was forced to fill in at third. The Red Sox returned home. While praying the hot corner some rowdies who occupied seats in the stands back of the bag began panning Harold and there is no doubt it got on his nerves. His play fell off and he couldn't hit a lick.

FINALLY Uncle Bill Carrigan tried Mike McNally, the recruit, at third. Mike started off in whirlwind fashion in the field but it soon developed that he couldn't hit a lick. So as soon as Gardner got well, Mike was shunted to the Providence club. Then Scott got spiked and followed this up by spraining his ankle. That forced Harold to take up the burden at shortstop.

Harold has played good ball in Scott's position, but the crowd, or at least a small part of it, kept the hammers a-going. It was pretty discouraging for Harold, but he stuck to the job and at last he forced all hands to cheer him. It was a brilliant victory for the Roxbury boy.

Chicago Auto Races Sept. 18.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Chicago's Fall automobile race, set originally for October 9, was advanced to September 18 by the Speedway management today. The fact that the New York races are set for October 2 figured largely in the change.

"Bat" Nelson Heads Savers of the Ring

Battling Nelson owns most of Hegewisch, Illinois. Billy Papke had $100,000 saved up when he quit the ring. He has it yet—and more. Packy McFarland took $150,000 with him when he quit and is now reading law. Leach Cross is a dentist, with a nest egg of the same amount. Tommy Murphy is an architect and builder in Brooklyn. He got his financial start in the prize ring.

There is another side to the picture, though. A good many successful fighters "blew" their money just as fast as they got it.

Jess Willard adds a chapter of his autobiography in the AMERICAN tomorrow and tells all about the savers and the spenders.

NEWARK, N. J., July 8.—Alfred Goullet set a new world's record at the Newark Velodrome when he won the five-mile open race, clipping 1 1-5 seconds off the former mark by covering the distance in 9 minutes 31 seconds. Oscar Egg was second.

POLO CHALLENGE UNFAIR—KEENE

CHICAGO, July 8.—It would not be sportsmanlike for American polo players to send a challenge to England for the international polo trophy within 15 years, according to Foxhall Keene.

"England cannot rehabilitate its polo team in 15 years. And until her teams are thoroughly back to form I do not think a challenge should be sent from America. We want the cup, but we want it with honor."

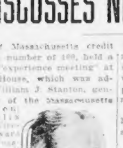
MASSACHUSETTS CREDIT UNION DISCUSSES NEW LEGISLATION

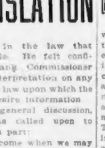
Members of Massachusetts credit unions, to the number of 100, held a banquet and "experience meeting" at the Quincy House, which was addressed by William J. Stanton, general manager of the Massachusetts Credit Union.



President Felix Vorenberg, chairman of the executive committee, was also among those present. It was announced that a committee was appointed to arrange for further meetings in the future.

The principal topic for discussion was the changes made by the Legislature of 1915 in the law relating to credit unions and conse- FELIX VORENBERG. quent possible changes made necessary in the by-laws of the many credit unions throughout the State. These changes were explained by Herman A. Metz, a director of the organization.

The principal discussion came on the question in the banquet talk covering director or indirect borrowing by members of the board of directors. Pliene Cox stated that it was evident that the State authorities were watching the credit unions. He urged the unions to get on their committees men of influence in the communities and offered to assist any union in getting such men.



MAX MITCHELL.

MAX MITCHELL SPEAKS.

Mr. Metz, who was chairman of the meeting, advised that it was possible to suggest to Bank Commissioner Thorndike and other authorities further changes in the law that might be advisable. He felt confident that the Bank Commissioner would make an interpretation on any points in the new law upon which the members might desire information.

Following the general discussion, Max Mitchell was called upon to speak. He said in part:

"The time may come when we may want some changes in the new law, although it is evident that the men who framed it have given valuable thought to the problems in hand. I am sure they meant to fortify the credit unions in this State.

"We have more credit unions in Massachusetts than in any other State, yet we must move on. The credit union is going to be one of the best means known of helping respectable men and women. We must broaden it in its application to the credit union.

President Vorenberg told of his gratification at the large attendance and on the great interest displayed by those present. Charles H. Filene as "the father of the credit union movement" endorsed Mr. Metz's suggestion that the various boards of the credit unions should choose men who could be called to give their time without looking for favors. Such men, he said, would be a great help in getting such unions started.

WANTS MORE UNIONS.

"The spirit that should go out from this meeting is that we should comply with the spirit of the new law to the letter. There should be such get-together meetings as this at least every other month. We should be proud of the work we are doing. I am proud to be counted a member of this organization."

Mr. Cheney, who was again called upon to speak, said:

"If the credit union has helped us we should be glad to form more credit unions, that others may be helped. If we have 1,000 unions we can easily supply the money that may be required by any one of them in a reasonable short time.

"The Massachusetts Credit Union pioneers have to lean to individual unions on their notes, with the exception of collateral. Then the unions with a surplus call buy these notes of a union and keep their surplus money busy. It is a great thing for the central exchange to strengthen each credit union."

Upon motion of Mr. Stanton a committee was then named to arrange for further meetings, and the remainder of the session was given over to a series of questions and answers based on current problems of the credit unions throughout the State, which developed a keen interest and great enthusiasm in the work of the Unions was shown.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened weak and active, with trading sentiment more bearish than it has appeared of late. Foreign liquidation, fear of more acute international complications and increased offerings of securities were among the reasons assigned for weakness of issues today. Present doubts are outweighing favorable fundamental conditions with speculators. The public has had very little hand in stocks for some time. But there is absolute confidence that things are going to work out to the advantage of this country, and that when prosperity blooms it will exceed anything of that kind any country has ever known. Before many months, if the present war continues, the people of the United States will own most of the securities which had been sold to foreigners in the past, and the latter will owe Americans so much for munitions of war and other supplies that for many years they will be deeply indebted to us. The promise of the moment is that the United States will become the greatest creditor country, and more than hold its own in competition in world markets.

PRICES RALLIED SOME.

There was a little rally in New York Central, Reading and the list was irregular for a few minutes. Then reactionary tendency that followed was continued at first. After fifteen minutes' trading the New York list showed both advances and declines, the former at that period were: Amalgamated ¼, American Can ¼, Atchison ½, New Haven ½, Southern Pacific ¼, Pacific Tel. & Tel. ½, Steel ⅛, Baldwin Locomotive ⅛, Bethlehem Steel ¼, Lackawanna ¼, Maxwell ½, Studebaker ⅝, Western Union ⅛, and Mexican Petroleum ¼. Declines included Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Chino ¼, Utah Copper ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅛, it having touched a new low price earlier; N. Y. Central, ex-dividend, ⅝, Reading ⅛, Union Pacific ⅝, American Smelting ⅝, Crucible Steel ¼, Louisville & Nashville ¼, Rock Island ¼ and U. S. Rubber ⅛.

The Boston market was dull from the start, but took a leaning from New York. Zincs continued to be the most active issues and opened weak. But they soon recovered losses. While they remained unchanged coppers were irregular. Among local gains were Calumet & Arizona ½, Mohawk ½, Old Colony ½, United Fruit ½ and Shoe Machinery ¼. U. S. Smelting was off ⅛, and Superior ⅛.

SUMMER STOCK AT A UNION.

It is reported from New York that one reason for prices being lower at the start was uneasiness over the fate of the steamship Minnehaha, reported on fire off the Irish coast while bound for Europe with a war cargo. Boats were approaching her assistance.

There was no metal buying movement of consequence reported. In the trade, however, there is confident there is ample reason for prices firmness for copper, spelter and lead.

PROPERTY OWNERS OF REVERE RESENT POLICE CLOSING ORDER

Following the closing up of over twenty stalls on the Revere Beach Boulevard, where alleged games of chance were being run, war has been declared on the Metropolitan Park Police by a committee of property owners along the boulevard.

The trouble developed, a little over a week ago, after numerous complaints to the police that the games were not being run on the level, and that in many cases, people who played the game received a "trimming," to the extent of anywhere from a few cents up to as high as forty or fifty dollars.

All the complaints were turned over to the Metropolitan Park Commission who have jurisdiction over the Beach Police, and an order was promulgated that the commissioners of the United States will own most of the securities which had been sold to foreigners in the past, and the latter will owe Americans so much for munitions of war and other supplies that for many years they will be deeply indebted to us. The promise of the moment is that the United States will become the greatest creditor country, and more than hold its own in competition in world markets.

PRICES RALLIED SOME.

There was a little rally in New York Central, Reading and the list was irregular for a few minutes. Their reactionary tendency that followed was continued at first. After fifteen minutes' trading the New York list showed both advances and declines, the former at that period were: Amalgamated ¼, American Can ¼, Atchison ½, New Haven ½, Southern Pacific ¼, Pacific Tel. & Tel. ½, Steel ⅛, Baldwin Locomotive ⅛, Bethlehem Steel ¼, Lackawanna ¼, Maxwell ½, Studebaker ⅝, Western Union ⅛, and Mexican Petroleum ¼. Declines included Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Chino ¼, Utah Copper ⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅛, it having touched a new low price earlier; N. Y. Central, ex-dividend, ⅝, Reading ⅛, Union Pacific ⅝, American Smelting ⅝, Crucible Steel ¼, Louisville & Nashville ¼, Rock Island ¼ and U. S. Rubber ⅛.

The Boston market was dull from the start, but took a leaning from New York. Zincs continued to be the most active issues and opened weak. But they soon recovered losses. While they remained unchanged coppers were irregular. Among local gains were Calumet & Arizona ½, Mohawk ½, Old Colony ½, United Fruit ½ and Shoe Machinery ¼. U. S. Smelting was off ⅛, and Superior ⅛.

SUMMER STOCK AT A UNION.

It is reported from New York that one reason for prices being lower at the start was uneasiness over the fate of the steamship Minnehaha, reported on fire off the Irish coast while bound for Europe with a war cargo. Boats were approaching her assistance.

There was no metal buying movement of consequence reported. In the trade, however, there is confident there is ample reason for prices firmness for copper, spelter and lead.

COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

The directors of the Island Creek Coal Company have declared a quarterly dividend of 50 per share upon the common capital stock of this company, payable August 2, 1915, to stockholders of record at close of business July 22, 1915.

F. W. BATCHELDER, Treasurer.

UNITED FRUIT COMPANY

DIVIDEND NO. 66

A quarterly dividend of two per cent. on the capital stock of this Company has been declared, payable July 15th, 1915, at the office of the Treasurer, 131 State Street, Boston, to stockholders of record at the close of business, June 19th, 1915.

CHARLES A. HUBBARD, Treasurer.

Following the closing up of over twenty stalls on the Revere Beach Boulevard, where alleged games of chance were being run, war has been declared on the Metropolitan Park Police by a committee of property owners along the boulevard.

The trouble developed, a little over a week ago, after numerous complaints to the police that the games were not being run on the level, and that in many cases, people who played the game received a "trimming," to the extent of anywhere from a few cents up to as high as forty or fifty dollars.

All the complaints were turned over to the Metropolitan Park Commission who have jurisdiction over the Beach Police, and an order was promulgated that the commissioners of the United States will own most of the securities which had been sold to foreigners in the past, and the latter will owe Americans so much for munitions of war and other supplies that for many years they will be deeply indebted to us. The promise of the moment is that the United States will become the greatest creditor country, and more than hold its own in competition in world markets.

The Suffragist Women are Proving Their Own Case

The overwhelming vote in favor of woman suffrage of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs is significant of the insignificance of the opposition to equal rights among women themselves.

It has always been a pretence of those women who oppose woman suffrage that they represent a substantial element of their sex. But wherever the test has been made of their pretensions they have proved baseless.

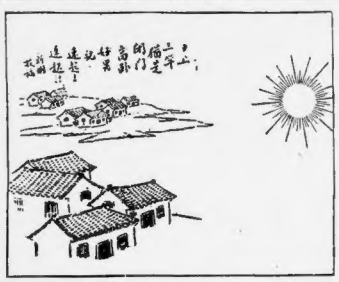
Indeed, it would be extraordinary if it were true that any substantial number of women were opposed to equal rights and equal voice in the government of their own country and in the control of themselves, their children and their property.

The competency of women for political activity is well proved by the efficiency with which the women are carrying on their campaign in favor of woman suffrage. They are thorough, industrious and well balanced in their efforts, and they will win if selfishness and undercurrents in the community are not too strong.

Chinese "Patriots and Heroes" Wake Up Late

May the United States Be More Wakeful Than China

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.



THIS IS A PATRIOTIC CHINESE CARTOON

Mr. Patrick Gallagher, editor of the Far Eastern Bureau, sends us this picture taken from the Eastern Times of Shanghai.

The Chinese lettering which you see printed means:

"The Rising Sun is three rods above the horizon. Yet still the people sleep behind their closed doors. Patriots! Heroes! Wake up!"

This is an appeal to Chinese patriots to awake before it is too late, and before the little Japanese people take control of them completely.

It is late for China to awake, for already the Japanese handcuffs are on her wrists, and she—huge, gigantic, UNPREPARED—is obeying the orders of a nation ten times less than she in mere bigness, considerably less in actual intelligence and infinitely less in wealth.

We wish only good fortune to the big, unhappy Chinese republic.

May she manage to wriggle out of the handcuffs that Japan has put upon her.

Meanwhile, may we, THE UNITED STATES, the biggest nation in the Americas, as China is the biggest nation in Asia, learn something from China's sad plight.

May we, before it is too late, before we realize with sorrow the folly of relying upon mere bigness and size without preparation—may we WAKE UP. May we decide to put upon the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic warships that will keep the world at a distance, and UNDER those waters submarines and hidden submarine stations, and in the air above flying machines, powerful, able to give to the enemy a welcome from the skies that will be most impressive.

"Patriots! Heroes! Wake up!"

So cries the unhappy Chinese editor—but late.

We are much obliged to Mr. Gallagher for the cartoon he sends us. America needs it as much as does China.

Mercenary Marriages Few, Despite What Cynics Say

By Dorothy Dix

A YOUNG man, who avers he is of a sentimental nature, complains bitterly about what he calls the commercialization of matrimony.

He says scornfully that in these days girls do not marry for love, as their grandmothers did, but that they regard marriage as a business proposition, and that unless a man can offer them a comfortable living they will have none of him. He further alleges that when a man asks the modern girl to marry him she actually has the nerve to ask him what he makes, and what his prospects are.

This the young man considers shocking, and he opines that the reason that so many men don't marry is because they cannot find any of the sweet, old-fashioned maidens who agree with the poet that love is enough, and who never ask for Bradstreet's blessing on their marriage.

I think this matrimonial cynic, like a good many other cynics, doesn't understand the situation at which he scoffs. In the first place, there were never so few mercenary marriages made as are made today. The woman of the past had to marry for a home and a meal ticket. Also she had to marry to escape dependence, and to have any individual place in the world.

If Grandma Wanted to Live She Had to Marry

In our grandmother's day the only gainful occupations open to women were domestic service, factory work, sewing and teaching. All were miserably ill-paid, and so if grandma wanted a decent living she had to marry it. Also an old maid was a figure of fun, despised, put upon, the fringe on some family that didn't want any appliqued edge of poor female relations.

So if grandma desired a home of her own, and position in society, and to be admired and respected, she had to marry an establishment, no matter what sort of feeling she had about the gentleman who produced the wherewithal.

The net result of this was that women shamelessly married, whether they loved or not, because marriage was the only open door to a career and livelihood.

Without doubt a thousand women in the past made a sordid, mercenary marriage, literally sold themselves in marriage, where one woman does now. For the first time in the history of the world women are free to follow the dictates of their own hearts in matrimony, because with all the avenues of gainful occupation that have opened up before the feminine sex, the modern girl can support herself as well as the average husband is likely to do.

The girl with a job can afford to marry for love, and the man that she says "yes" to can rest in perfect satisfaction that he is loved for himself alone, and loved greatly, because the girl of today thinks a good long while before she surrenders her individual pocketbook and freedom. The working girl doesn't marry to get somebody to pay for her hats and gowns. On the other hand, she expects to renounce most of these frivols by marrying, for observation has taught her that the woman who earns her own clothes generally has many more or them than the one whose clothes are given her by her husband.

Girls Ought to Know What Their Beaux Make

As for the cynic's caustic arraignment of girls who ask their prospective husbands what they are making, why should they not? It is surely a question of some importance to a woman to know what sort of a partnership she is going into, and what the resources of the firm are going to be, and what the prospects for the future are.

No sensible man would be fool enough to put his all into an enterprise without making a few inquiries about it. It wouldn't suffice him to know that the gentleman interested in the project with him had soulful eyes, and white teeth, and broad shoulders, and a taking way. He would want to know how much the man made, what energy he had, and whether he was one of the men with initiative who would be sure to get along, or a slack individual who would always just fall short of success.

Surely, if anywhere on earth good, hard, practical horse sense is needed it is in the selection of a life partner, and it argues much for domestic happiness in the future that girls have begun to try to find out before marriage whether a man can support a family or not, instead of waiting till after marriage to find out that he can't.

In poetry and novels romance is all that a young couple needs to start housekeeping on, but in real life it takes a bank account, and unless that is forthcoming the romance melts away like mist in a morning sun. Nobody is sentimental when he is hungry, and cold, and shabby. And when the bill collector begins pounding on the door Cupid beats it out of the window. It takes a full stomach as well as a full heart to inspire lovemaking.

Lack of Finances Ruins Most Marriage Romances

These are truisms as old as civilization, and it doesn't kill romance, it promotes romance to bear that in mind. Of all disastrous marriages none more quickly ends in misery and disillusionment than those which are not supported by an adequate financial plank, and if girls have acquired enough sense to inquire into the state of a man's pocketbook, as well as his affections, before they marry, it's going to do more than any other one thing to stop divorce.

If this is what the commercialization of matrimony means, then the commercialization of matrimony meets a long-felt want. Let's have more of it.

Forgiving War Mothers

By Helen Ring Robinson

Former Member of the Colorado State Senate.

ENGLAND is planning to forgive the women of the empire who are soon to become mothers of war babies—without benefit of clergy.

The cables say nothing about forgiving the soldier fathers of these babies. Hence we may assume that neither Zeppelins nor submarines have shattered that double standard of morality which England cherishes as she does the throne and Magna Charta.

Many of these women are girls of fifteen or sixteen. They live in rural corners of England and Scotland where a soldier had never been seen until the gathering armies of Britain were billeted there at the outbreak of the Great War. And those soldiers were no longer mere soldiers. They were heroes, saviors of civilization, defenders of the empire from the onslaught of the Huns. So all Britain was calling them—venerable divines, men of letters, financiers, alike caught in that epidemic of hysteria, which is as truly a camp follower of war as cholera. Those young girls caught the epidemic, too. And now, in heaviness and anguish, they are shaping new lives for the race.

* * *

Members of Parliament and reverend bishops are planning how best to stage this forgiveness.

"At a specified time," we learn, "a general edict of forgiveness will be read from the pulpits throughout the country which will automatically remove the stigma from the mothers."

On the other hand, those who preach forgiveness protest that "by forgiving we by no means condone matters. But unless something is done to remove the stigma from the mothers, they may in many instances abandon their babies for the State to care for in institutions."

Ah-h-h! Plainly a matter of "business, as usual." It will be easier for taxpayers if those mothers rear their own children, though in England, where women toilers are systematically sweated, such rearing must condemn them to ceaseless, sordid drudgery or to recruiting the sad army of slinking shadows which lurk in midnight streets—a curse to womanhood, a menace to manhood.

England may forgive the war mothers. But can the war mothers forgive England?

England, then, should stop peddling pale pink patter about forgiving war mothers. She should study a law that has lately been enacted in Norway, then command Parliament forthwith to pass a similar one—a law giving the so-called illegitimate child the right to bear its father's name, if the mother so wishes; a law giving that child equal rights with children born in wedlock in all matters of inheritance—and of war relief.

Then England can safely leave it to God Almighty to forgive the war mothers.

Why Eugenic Marriages Are Turning Out So Badly
